

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF OPTOMETRY

SEEKING OPTOMETRIC EDUCATORS

Pacific University is a prestigious University located in the Portland metropolitan area, one hour from the Cascade mountains and Pacific Ocean. The University is home to the College of Optometry, College of Health Professions, College of Education, College of Business, and College of Arts & Sciences. Optometry, MS and PhD students enjoy a rich educational environment, learning full-scope optometry with state-of-the-art educational, research, and clinical technology.

Pacific University College of Optometry is seeking applicants for faculty positions with emphasis in primary care, outreach, ocular disease, systemic disease, and/or other areas. Classroom, laboratory, and clinical assignments will reflect programmatic needs, as well as the successful candidate's expertise and interests.

The successful candidate will have an OD degree and be eligible for licensure to practice optometry in the state of Oregon. Preference will be given to applicants with residency/ fellowship training, an advanced degree (PhD), and/or advanced professional development/ experience.

A commitment to excellence in the expansion of knowledge through vision research, optometric education, lifelong learning, and supporting diversity, equity, and inclusion is essential.

Candidates should submit a letter of application, a comprehensive curriculum vitae, and three references to:
